

SEYCHELLES

The Seychelles has some of the most beautiful islands in the Indian Ocean and rate among the finest in the world. 115 islands stretch in a jewelled crescent from the equator to the tip of Madagascar.

The Seychelles are split into granite or coral islands and the extraordinary beauty of the islands, many of them only tiny coral specks, is such that nearly half of the Seychelles is set aside as a marine national park.

Mahe, the largest island with the international airport, slower paced Praslin, where the coco de mer is found, offers some of the finest accommodations in the Seychelles. Adjacent to Praslin is the enchanting island of La Digue with its famous beaches of breathtaking beauty.
